

MESSAGE 68 FEBRUARY.1.2020

I looked for you, daughter of My Soul, I looked for you, I didn't stop until I had found you, until I took you with Me, and how do you pay Me? You walked away, walked away from Me and did not want to know anything about Me, so this is how you pay your God and Lord His sleeplessness and affection¹, His offering on the Cross for you? You are mean and by your heart you will lose yourself, oh Jerusalem city of My entrails, of My Heart, that you kill the prophets² and spill their blessed blood, you kill the messengers of your God and Lord, but behold, I arrive, I come with Power and Majesty³ to rule the peoples of the Earth⁴ and you, city of My loves, are among them, I will rule you with an iron⁵ staff and entrails of love⁶.

In this night⁷ of silence, I want to come to your heart, speak to your heart⁸ like two lovers, in silence, in intimacy; prepare yourself to hear My voice in the silence of your heart; make a space in your life for your God and Lord, pay attention, you will not regret hearing My Words in the silence of your heart; that day when you are before Me you will be glad, but today, today My daughter, listen, pay attention to your Savior: I come, I come and I do not delay⁹. The world is lost, doomed to death and destruction¹⁰; I come to bring peace, love and harmony between man and his Creator, broken friendship by the sin that dwells in your hearts, but the debt paid with the Blood of your Redeemer¹¹.

Look, daughter, get your ear¹² closer on this intimate¹³ night, because you have to hear words of love, words of reproach and sentence of love. A whole God came down from heaven, became a man for you, for your love, for your salvation, and you still look for him and do not find him, you wait for him and he does not come, you are lost, oh Jerusalem of My entrails, Israel of My Heart; the world begs for your Savior, your Savior to come, and what about you?.

In one night I came to this world, in one night I will return to your heart; on a Cross I died for you¹⁴, for your love, on a Cross you will see Me, and you will see My pain and My agony as you had never seen Me suffer before; You will understand My pain for the loss of souls¹⁵, My souls, which My Eternal Father gave Me to rescue them from sin¹⁶ and eternal hell. You will see My suffering and My pain for you, and you will understand the pain of your Savior.

On this night I want to shout to the world My Love for all souls. My pain and suffering for the loss of a single soul is so great that no one could bear it without dying, and your God and Lord hurts by so many lost souls. By the bewilderment and the evil in which they fall they become prey to the devil, Satan, who persecutes them day and night to snatch them from My Holy Father; they were in His Heart and belong to Him, they belong to Him, but the envious and arrogant demon only seeks to take them and lose them forever¹⁷ and only by snatching them out of the hand of My Father¹⁸; children, on this night I cry out for your love and mercy: comfort My Heart, comfort My Father's Heart, because this world does not hear the voice of God, it does not want the salvation on the Cross that I came to bring¹⁹ you, and souls are lost day and night, despite the constant efforts and attempts of My Holy Heart to draw them to Him²⁰.

Son, you who listen to Me tonight, help your Savior²¹, comfort My Heart, comfort Me, son, of so much pain: follow My ways, obey My Mandates, stay with Me in the silence of your heart and love Me, because your God and Lord is not loved by so many souls. No, son, do not let them get lost in what you can help your Savior, pray for them, offer sacrifices and libations²², suffer with My pain and be willing to obey My Holy Inspirations that the Holy Spirit leaves in your heart²³, never abandon your Redeemer, 'love with love is paid' you say, and you say well because only love pays for love.

In one night I came to this world, in a night of silence and peace²⁴, but, children, now there will be no nights of silence and peace but of war and convulsion in this world, which does not want his Savior, who does not want to hear His voice. Some shepherds listened to the angel, but now who watches?, so that My Angel announces him, warns him that I am close, that I am here; you sleep children, you sleep in the things of this world and you do not wake up to the Grace that watches incessantly.

The lamps lit, the holy tabernacle, children, will turn off its light and I will not be; keep the lamps on²⁵ that day, the lamp that will announce that I am in your heart, that I dwell in it²⁶, that is My holy tabernacle, My sanctuary, My abode.

The human heart is not easy, it is full of passions and sins, but, children, a heart converted to the Lord strips and cleanses himself of all the evil that dwells in him²⁷. Let Me be your Gardener, and tear out the weeds of your heart, and plant flowers and trees of abundant fruits, let me enter your heart and dwell in it.

One day I looked for you, son of My Soul, and found you; let yourself be led and loved by your God and Savior, never close your heart again, let me dwell in it.

In the world trumpets are heard that warn, that are warning, that all that was to come is coming to you; the time is here, it has arrived. Prepare for the time of rigor and calamity, for a time without God because the world will throw God out of life but he can never cast him out of your hearts, children, there I will be and there I will dwell.

My Eucharistic Presence will never disappear completely from the world, never, I will always be with you, but not as you see me now, because I will not be able to; Almighty God once again submits to human freedom, and accepts the will of man as regulator of his decisions and of his free will.

Come to Me, come, children, and never turn away from Me, stay in My Holy Heart and protect yourself from the cold and the storm, from the infernal ray. My Mother protect you, and under her mantle shelter you, because days will come, oh Jerusalem, that the world will be lost and wandering between evil and the horror of demons²⁸, who will walk loose as never before could be. It is God's design for this world of sin, which rejects the Salvation of the Son of God on the Cross: The Great Purification²⁹.

I must tell you nothing else, for now begins the meditation of My Words in your heart³⁰.

Be vigilant, be alert, for the roaring lion is looking for who to devour³¹: those who are lost and weak in faith, or without it.

They will not be easy times to live, but difficult and hard, I warn you, keep the lit lamps of the tabernacle of your heart because My angels will recognize the tabernacle on and the tabernacle off, therefore, children, keep the lamps on and My angels will watch together with you³², they will be by your side, they are the secrets of the Kingdom.

Watch, watch and do not fall into temptation, wait for the Owner of the harvest, watch with the lamps on and the faith robust, prepare, prepare for this time that comes, that is here.

The fate of the Pope, of the elect, is in My hands, no one will be snatched from My hand if you do not let go of it.

Do not care so much about life³³, worry more about giving your life for love to Who is the depository of it and it belongs to, and prepare your soul to always be willing to give your life, when He who knows everything and can do everything, ask you for it; He will ask you with love to give you an Eternal Kingdom of Love. The life given is not always with bloodshed; Be willing to what God asks of you, always.

My children, My dear children, My army of the blind, lepers, lame, sick and suffering, come after Me³⁴ that I, the Lord, know you and know your
