

MESSAGE 98 JULY.1.2022

«You will see the new day clearing, you will see the sunrise in the sky, and you will smile and praise God¹ with all your being.

Here I am to rule the Earth², with a rod of iron³ and Heart of Mercy⁴, because this world is evil⁵ and has done evil to My children of the Soul.

Man against man, the blood of the brother⁶ was shed, the life created by God for an eternal design was not respected. Many tears were shed and the hearts of many lives, victims of violence, were torn out. How much evil! How much suffering! How much pain!

Man against man: they were not brothers in the Love of God; they did not love each other, they fought, they made each other suffer, they hurt each other. They were enemies and they did not find love in their lives because they despised God Almighty. They rejected Him in their lives and went against Him. So it has History been written and so it continues to be written. God cannot consent so much evil without a just punishment⁷ that purifies this world and converts souls.

The arm of God will fall implacable on this world and they will know that there is a God who governs life, who looks down from heaven and sees the sons of men in their beds and in their dens; who sees the hearts of men and searches their thoughts; who gives to each one according to what their works deserve⁸ and no deed of evil will remain unjustly punished, and no tear will remain unconsolated⁹.

Those who have suffered doing good¹⁰, will enjoy Eternal Life. Those who have done evil to My children of the Soul and have condemned their souls to eternal fire for their deeds will go there for an eternity, because I saw My children cry, be humiliated and killed, ripped the life from the innocent in the maternal womb and no one raised a voice for them; I saw the mother cry for her children taken to the slaughterhouse of the war and the confrontation between brothers in the content of war; I saw how the wife mourned the loss of the husband vilely murdered in the heat of battle and the judgment of men that sent to their deaths to husband and children, parents and brothers, women and all victims of hatred between brothers¹¹. I saw it from the Throne of Heaven and I swore justice and sent My angels to escort their souls to the promised Heaven and they rose among songs and joys those who suffered and were martyred by the hatred of the war, hatred of God¹². Today they are with Me, they live in the Eternal Heaven, in the Eternity of Love and entrust those who still walk in the valley of tears.

Children, today I want a reflection in your hearts for all the suffering and horror endured by so many of your brothers, in the wars and conflicts of history and in so many places of silence that will never be known, except by the Heart of God that sees¹³ everything and scrutinizes everything.

The Heart of God cried¹⁴ and cries for so many souls uprooted from life in a hellish suffering, because man did not find love and compassion¹⁵ by rejecting God in his heart.

Children, unite your efforts and your prayer in a plea to God so that His Kingdom of Love¹⁶ may come soon.

Nothing will remain in this world without just punishment and the righteous will praise God among joys for ever and ever in the promised Heaven.

The children, uprooted from life will play and laugh joyfully in Paradise alongside God and evil will disappear forever, but you will still suffer it because this world has not yet been purified, but it will be.

Your souls in God, your consciences clean¹⁷, your eyes towards Heaven¹⁸, your thoughts in God alone.

The journey of life one day ends, but it is then when Life begins, when the soul, at the end of the journey, finally arrives at its destination, arrives at its home, where it is awaited by Its Creator, by Its Savior, by Its Sanctifier. He comes home, to the house of the Father¹⁹, to the Paternal house, where he is awaited with love. Until that day fight as strong and courageous soldiers of the army of Christ, an army of love and salvation. Their weapons are not those of men: they are those of God, the virtues²⁰, guided by the Spirit of God to the promised land between songs and joys. It is an army of the healthy, sick, disabled and blind who fight just like the healthy and strong because weapons are not wielded, only the love to the heart of God²¹ and to men²² fights in battle: sometimes with deeds, sometimes with silence, sometimes with prayer, but always looking at the Master²³.

Children, it is a time of reflection, of prayer, of silence, because the final destiny looms over this world and you will have to fight and suffer but always in God, children; do not let yourselves be carried away by human feelings²⁴, so often fallen by the sin that nests in you. How many times a small feeling not extinguished in time ends in hatred between siblings. Take care of your inner²⁵ movements and trivialize none.

It is time to mourn sins²⁶, to embrace the brother offended²⁷ by your sins. Make peace among yourselves, ask for forgiveness and love one another, pray for those who do evil²⁸ to you and do not hold any grudges against them, for everything will one day be punished by the One Judge of History, the one who sees everything from Heaven. Only judgment²⁹ and chastisement corresponds to Him, for He alone sees what is in the heart of man.

Do not make yourselves judges of one another³⁰, but entrust everything to God and pray for one another. Pity the one who does evil because his soul is in eternal danger.

Love yourselves children, love one another³¹ and fight together, side by side for the Kingdom of Christ, a Kingdom of Love and Justice.

Be patient with one another and endure all your shortcomings³². Forgive the sins of the brother in your heart so that you too may be forgiven by the Father God³³.

-Love yourselves children, leave so much violence and so much hatred between brothers. Love and forgive one another all offenses. Look to Christ on the Cross who forgave His executioners and asked the Father for mercy for them³⁴.

Enough of so much evil and so much rancor. Cleanse your souls in the sacrament of confession and with your soul cleansed and purified by the forgiveness of God and your forgiveness to the one who offends you, receive in communion the one who is Love, the One Love, and ask him to teach you to love.

Ask God for the Gift of forgiveness³⁵ to forgive the one who offends you and always ask forgiveness with humility from the one you have offended. May no feeling of evil nest in your heart. Do not let it remain even the slightest moment in your heart; put out that fire that can burn you all, pour upon it the clean and crystalline³⁶ Water, pure and unblemished of the Holy Spirit, so that it may extinguish in you all evil.

Take care of the cleansing of your heart³⁷.

Love each other as I, Jesus, have loved you³⁸ and love you, My dear Children of the Soul³⁹ I await you every day, I love you and take you in My Holy Heart. Love one other⁴⁰.»
